This Saturday, November 14th, 2009, Matt France, Darren White and Zack Meyer will each meet with and undergo a one hour in depth interview with Brian Stewart, Founder of Brian Stewart Racing and Janet Stewart, Team Principal and Vice President of Corporate Services. What's at stake is a test drive in a BSR Firestone Indy Lights IRL race car.

Their interviews will cover their racing records, future career paths in motorsports, communication and teamwork skills, and their sponsorship relationship competencies.

In addition to the Indy Lights test drive, the successful candidate will receive a Bell helmet, a custom made Hinchman racing suit, racing mentoring with Mr. Stewart and business mentoring with Ms. Stewart.

Michael Glaze, winner of the 2008 karting shootout, and this year's successful candidate will both travel to one of the American speedways. The date and track will be announced shortly by Brian Stewart Racing.

The BSRKC Principals and Organizer extend our deepest appreciation to the Brian Stewart Racing team and take this opportunity to wish Matt, Darren and Zack all the best in nailing the interview that could possibly see one of them or Michael Glaze on the grid in the 2010 Firestone Indy Lights series!
